visitors to the silkscreen printing process. Viewers can also enjoy a one-hour study tour of the print studios and the dye and pigment mixing rooms, and observe master printers at work constructing and printing artists' silkscreen projects. Tours can be adapted to all ages.

Fabric Workshop and Museum is located at 1315 Cherry St., on the fifth and sixth floors. There is a small entrance fee. For hours or a list of current exhibitions, call 215.568.1111 or check out the museum online at fabricworkshopandmuseum.org.

→ MEN WELCOME

For the most part, spas are women's turf. They offer things like body wraps and facial peels, and they're full of strange oils, gels, and something called exfoliators that, to a typical guy, all seem a bit mysterious and maybe a little bit unusual. But that's starting to change in Charlotte, as a growing number of spas are now catering exclusively to men, or at least are offering more services to start attracting them.

Emerson Joseph, located in Uptown, is devoted to men. With a pool table and flatscreen TVs, the atmosphere feels equal parts laid-back social club and upscale spa. It offers a full line of services, including the basics like a haircut and a shave, as well as a wide variety of more specialized treatments, from facials and massages to manicures and pedicures. Visit Emerson Joseph at 221 S. Tryon St. To ask about the services or to make an appointment call 704.343.3443 or go to emersonjoseph.com.

While Urbana Cityspa & Teabar

doesn't cater exclusively to men, it offers plenty to make those of the male persuasion happy. The chic, spacious lounge has a full-service teabar that also serves wine, champagne, and chocolates. There are eight massage treatment rooms, each with a different theme. "This isn't a beauty salon," says owner Nancy Goodwin. "There are no hair dryers, bright lights, TVs, or kids. The focus is on relaxation in a place where both sexes can enjoy themselves." Urbana is at 7510 Pineville-Matthews Rd. in Carmel Village. To find out about all the treatments call 704.543.1700 or go online and visit escape2urbana.com.

The full-service salon and day spa Carmen! Carmen! puts more emphasis on hair and beauty needs, but it also offers a full line of spa treatments, including manicures, body wraps, and massages. The spa has three locations in Charlotte, including the main one in Cotswold Village Shops. The spa has a series of therapy rooms where clients can opt for such treatments as the Endurance Package, designed specifically for men and featuring a facial, massage, haircut, and eyebrow wax. For location information, go to the Web site carmencarmensalon.com.

Another city hot spot is Polished, a full-service spa that offers a "men-i-cure" and the deluxe Player's Manicure, which comes with a special citrus exfoliation treatment, super-hydrating paraffin dip, hand and nail detailing, and an anti-stress hand and arm massage. You can enjoy a complimentary glass of chardonnay or merlot during your
